MID-WEEK PICTORIAL AS A HELP IN TEACHING

Two interesting pictures are here presented of the little ones in the Fairholm School of Lorain, Ohio, where The Mid-Week Pictorial is used daily as an aid in impressing upon the plastic minds of the children the interesting and important events of the world's news. The teacher of the class, Miss Grace Pierce, writes that pictures from the current copy are kept on the bulletin board through the entire week. For a few minutes every day she calls the attention of the children to them and enlarges upon their meaning. She is enthusiastic upon the results obtained. At right are seen two little ones studying a copy of The Mid-Week and above are shown a section of the seven-year-old orchestra of the school, equipped with drums, tambourines, triangles and bells of all sizes and tones.

RAILROAD STATION CLAIMED TO BE HIGHEST IN THE WORLD

This little station at Ticlio, Peru, is 15,685 feet above sea level, and it is stated that it is the highest railroad station in the world. By an oversight in our issue of Feb. 16 that distinction was claimed for a little station in Throndeim, Norway. The air pressure at the Ticlio altitude is but 7½ pounds to the square inch.

BRIDGE WRECK

This drawbridge over the Hackensack River was crashed into recently by the steamship Glendael, which tore the centre span from its fastenings. The bridge fell into the river, carrying five men, who were rescued by the police uninjured. The bow of the steamship was badly damaged.

"SHORTY"

Diminutive in height but broad in girth is this well-known traffic policeman, stationed at what is perhaps the busiest auto corner, outside of the great cities, in the United States, Lynbrook, L. I. Within twelve hours on a recent Sunday 56,321 cars were directed along their way by "Shorty." He is universally popular, except with drivers who violate the speed laws. (International Photos.)

Disbanding of Irish Regiments at Dublin Castle; Flag

FIGHTING IN ULSTER

Scene in the streets of Belleek, Ulster, shortly after that town had been recaptured and occupied by Royal Irish Infantry, supported by armored cars. The Ulster border troubles have developed almost to the point of involving that province and the Irish Free State in a state of war. The bitterness between the factions has been accentuated by the assassination of Field Marshal Wilson in London.

IRISH TROOPS
DISBANDING

One of the most unusual demonstrations in Ireland was that which occurred recently when the famous Southern Irish regiments turned over their colors to King George. The regiments whose deeds are famous in British military history were the Royal Irish Regiment, the Connaught Rangers, the Southern Irish Horse, the Prince of Wales Leinster Regiment, the Royal Munster Fusiliers and the Royal Dublin Fusiliers.

MARINES KILLED IN AIRPLANE CRASH

A regrettable fatality occurred within 3,000 feet of the historic Gettysburg battlefield recently when a plane fell to earth carrying Captain George D. Hamilton and Sergeant Martin, both of Washington, D. C. They were flying in advance of a marching column of 5,500 marines. The aviators were killed.

Whiskaway Wins $50,000 Kentucky Special, Beating Morvich by Ten Lengths

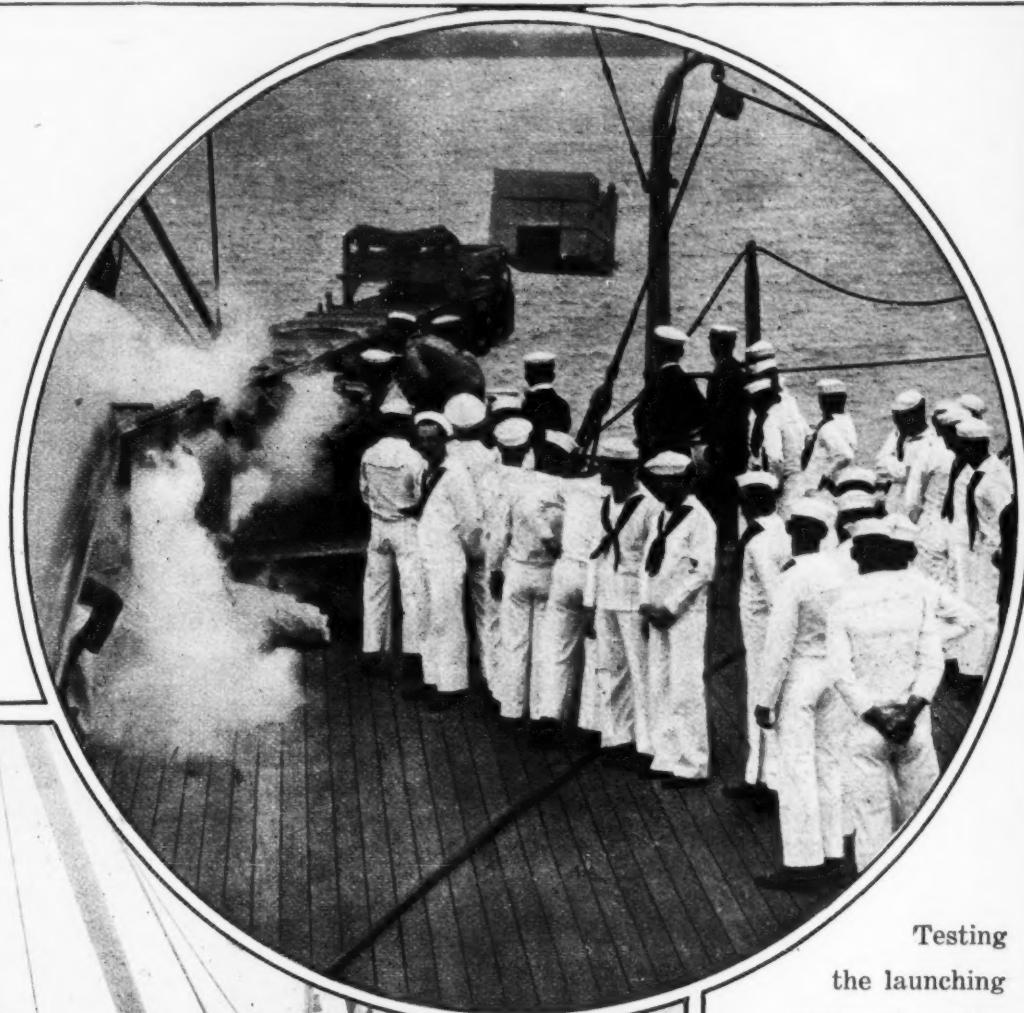

Remarkably fine snapshot showing Whiskaway, the H. P. Whitney colt, driving across the finish line three-quarters of a length in front of Thibadoux and so far ahead of the great Morvich that the latter does not even show in the picture. It was a well-earned victory for the Whitney colt and demonstrated that his previous defeat of Morvich was not due simply to the fact that at that time he carried 15 pounds less weight. In this Kentucky Special both horses were rated alike and the result of the race was an unmistakable demonstration of Whiskaway's class. The race was for a purse of $50,000, of which the net to the winner was $42,250. Morvich had gone to the post an overwhelming favorite. Whiskaway paid in the mutuels at 4½ for 1.

Launching Plane From Catapult

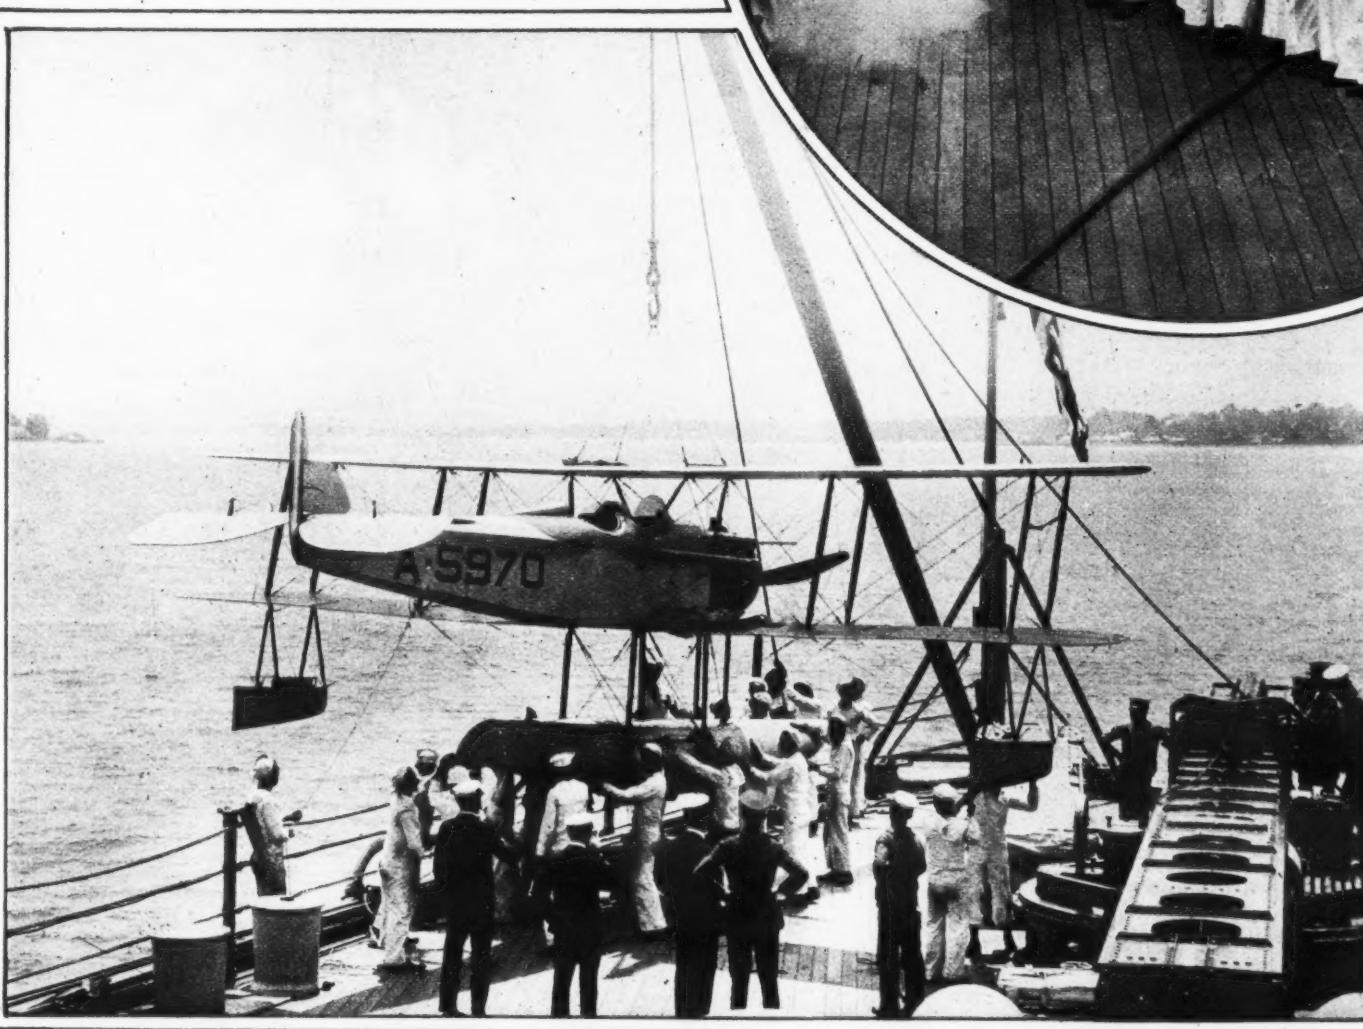

A DEVELOPMENT of great value in the United States Navy is the successful use of catapults for launching planes from the deck of the battleship Maryland. The limited space on a ship's deck does not permit a seaplane to get the start it needs for raising in the air. The catapult consists of a carriage moving on trucks. On this carriage is mounted the plane. By means of motor power the carriage is caused to move on the tracks at an increased acceleration until near the end of the tracks. This speed is sufficient to permit the plane to take the air; then the carriage is brought to rest by means of suitable brakes and shock absorbers. Such apparatus can be made in various sizes so as to be used in the launching of any airplane which it is likely to desire to use from surface ships. When a plane is launched from the deck of a battleship by means of a catapult that plane cannot land on the deck of a vessel at the end of a flight. It will alight on the water in the lee of the ship and be hoisted on board by suitable cranes. Experiments thus far have been very successful.

OUTBREAK OF SAVAGERY IN COAL MINE LABOR TROUBLES

One of the blackest pages in the history of labor troubles was written recently at Herrin, Ill., when nineteen nonunion and two union men met death, most of them under conditions of revolting brutality. At right is shown what remained of the supply house after the building had been dynamited and burned by the union miners. Below is seen the twisted metal work of the burned sleeping cars in which the nonunion workers lived.

Amundsen's Own Map of His Arctic Expedition

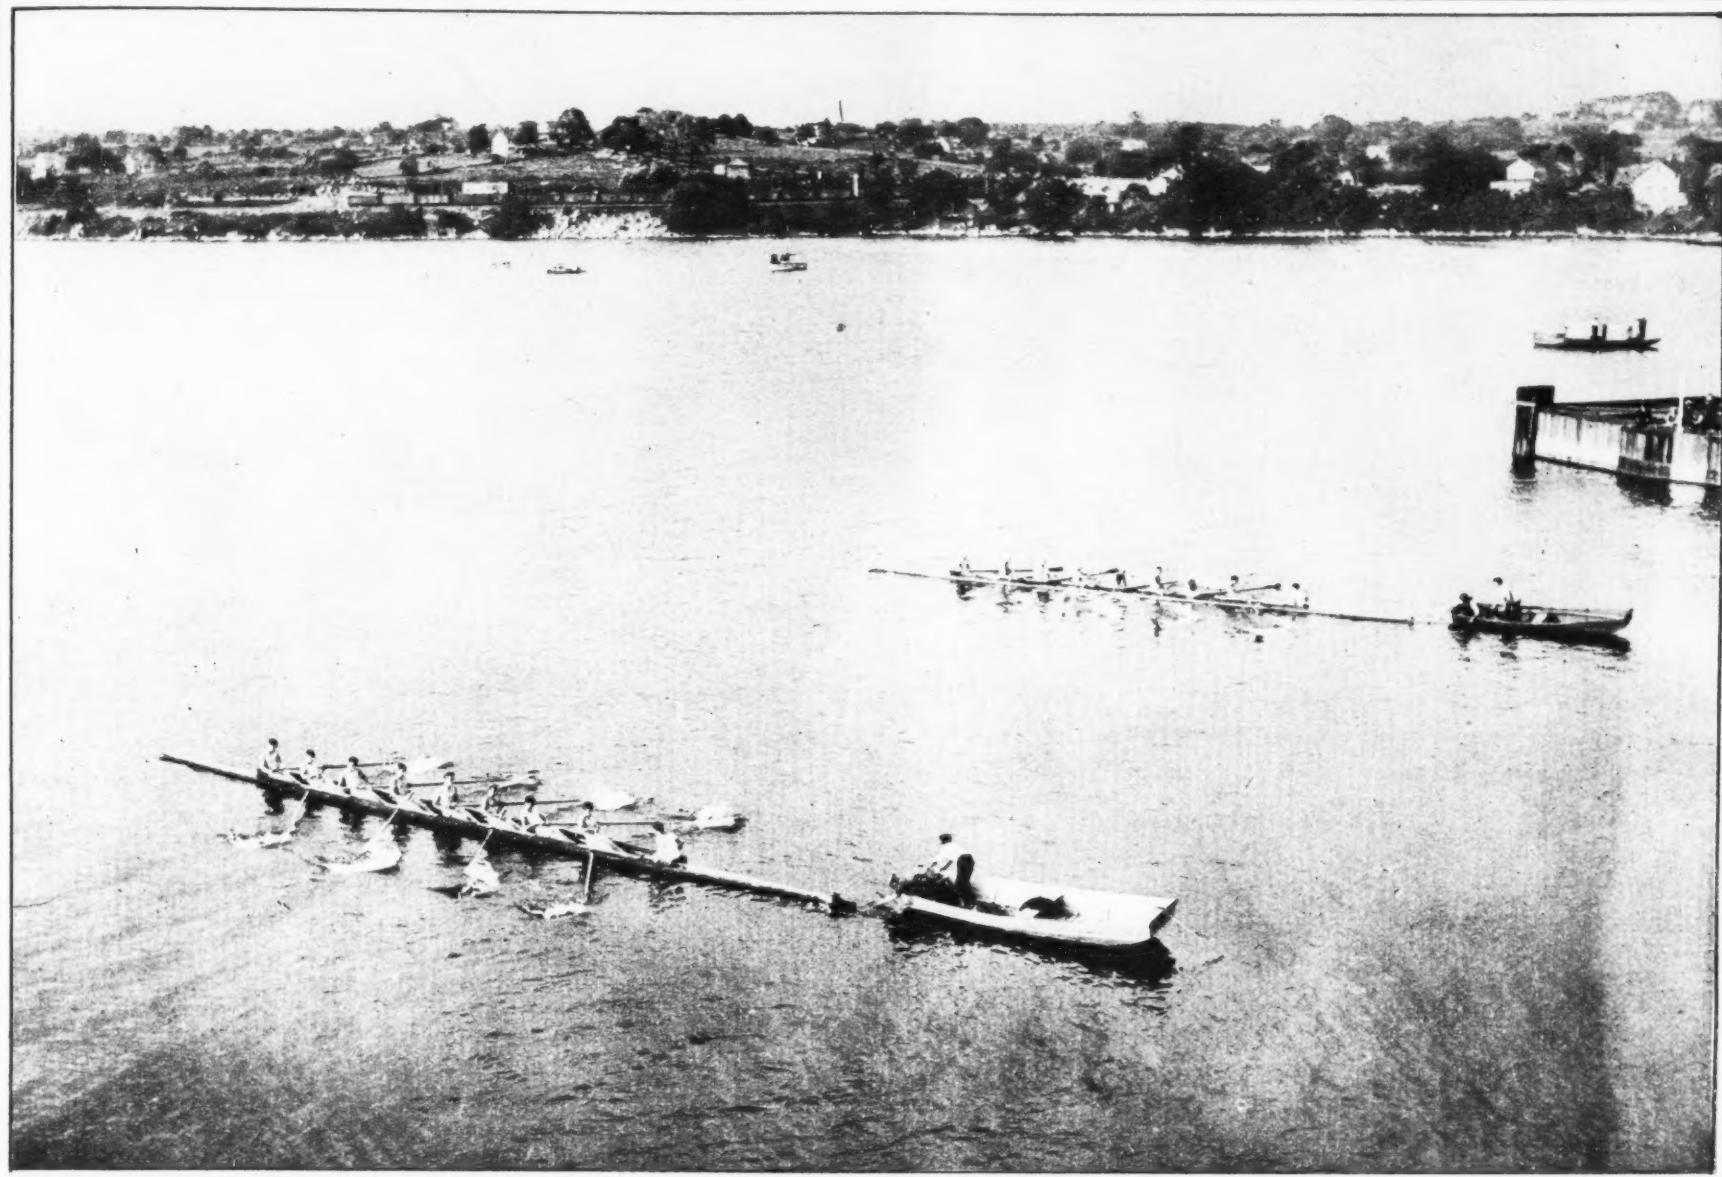

This map was personally marked by the explorer, Roald Amundsen, for Henry Woodhouse, President of the Aerial League of America. The heavy line from Bering Strait across to the North Pole represents the course that Amundsen expects the huge mass of polar ice in which his ship is to be locked will follow. The question mark near the Pole is Amundsen's dramatic answer to Mr. Woodhouse's inquiry as to the possible direction and speed of drift of the arctic ice in which his ship Maud will be locked.

Captain Amundsen placing the challenging question mark upon the map in answer to the question of Mr. Woodhouse: "Will you please mark the direction of the drift?"

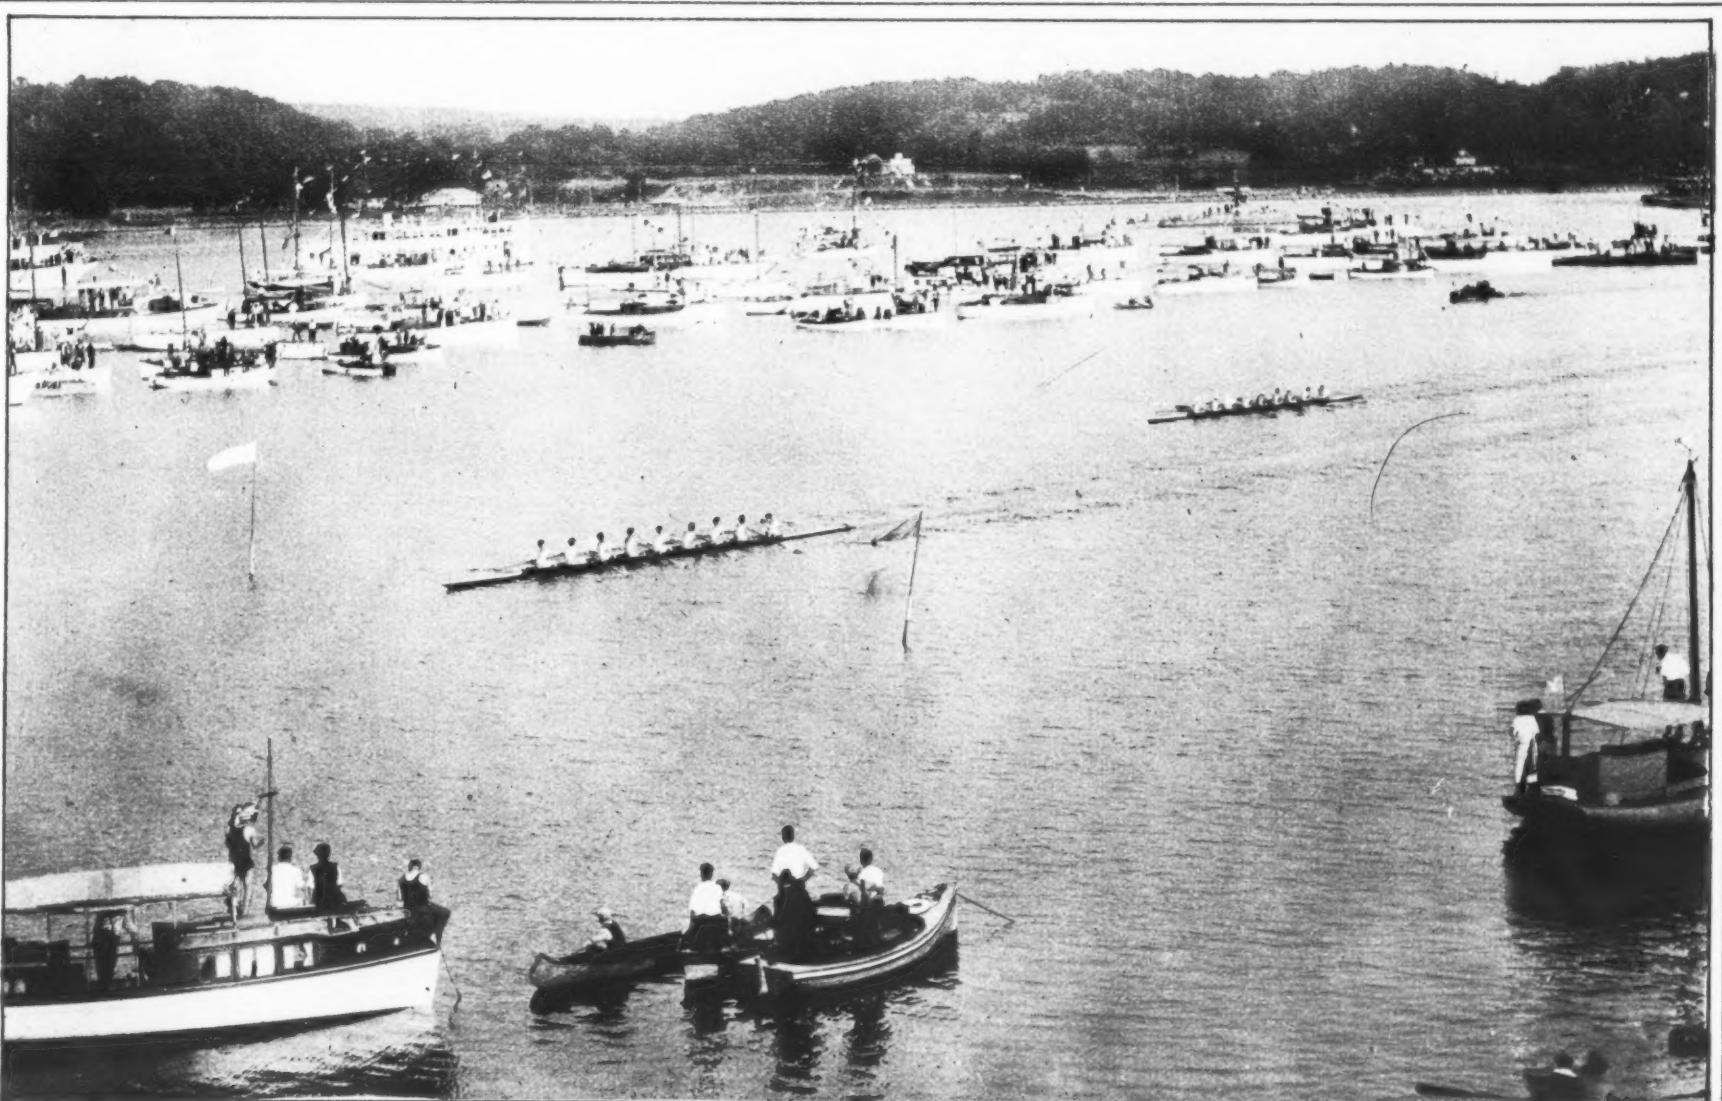

The master of the Maud, Oscar Wistning, his assistant and Eskimos with one of the twenty-five dogs on board the Maud, which sailed recently from Seattle on a trip of exploration, which may take years in the making. Captain Amundsen expects to reach the North Pole in 1924. His plan is to get his ship locked in the ice and follow the drift which he thinks will take him to his desired goal. He carries with him an airplane with which he may attempt the flight to the Pole when he gets within striking distance.

Blue Defeats Crimson in Varsity Race at New London

Start of the Yale-Harvard 'varsity race on the Thames River, New London, June 23. The Yale crew, rowing like machines, took an early lead at the start and were never hard pressed. The fast pace maintained by the leaders killed off the wearers of the crimson. The latter, however, never ceased trying and fought gamely to the end. The sons of Yale forced the nose of their slender cedar shell across the finish line three lengths ahead of their exhausted fighting rivals. The result of the race was greeted with hilarious joy by the Yale supporters and pained surprise on the part of the rooters for Harvard. (Wide World Photos)

Yale crew crossing the finish line three lengths ahead of their rivals in the Harvard shell. The race was a grueling one, but at the finish Yale had the greater stamina. The Yale crew took the full benefit of the water with a long, swinging stroke, while Harvard spaced poorly. At the finish they were apparently as fresh and strong as ever, but the Crimson oarsmen were rowed out, burned up, by the terrific, unrelenting, killing pace that Yale had set. The distance was four miles and the time was 21:53. (International.)

Beauty for Everyone Says VIOLA DANA

Just Make This Simple Test.

"I am often asked how I keep my complexion so fresh looking," says Viola Dana, the Screen Star. "It's a simple process to have a smooth, velvety, rosy-white complexion and unwrinkled skin if just a little time is devoted to caring for it."

"To have a clear, healthy skin, cleanliness is absolutely necessary. For this purpose I use a good cleansing cream (Liska cold cream I have found to be the best). I then bathe my face with warm water, rinse with cold, dry thoroughly and apply Derwillo, a simple toilet preparation."

This preparation beautifies the complexion and gives anyone a more youthful appearance. You can form no idea what a wonderful effect it has upon the skin until you test it. Here is the best way: Put it on one side of your face, then look in your mirror and note the difference. You will need no further argument to convince you that there is nothing like it for beautifying purposes.

The quick results it gives is the reason for its popularity with actresses and discriminating women who realize the value of a rosy-white, smooth, clear complexion.

Derwillo is especially recommended for dark, sallow skin, tan, shiny nose, blackheads, coarse pores and numerous other facial blemishes. Many use it in preference to face powders or all other beautifiers, as it is more lifelike. Perspiration does not affect it, therefore it stays on better than face powder, does not rub off on clothing and its use cannot be detected.

It is harmless even on the most delicate skin and will not stimulate or produce a growth of hair. Over one million are now using it. Now that short sleeves are in vogue you will want to beautify your hands and arms. There is nothing like Derwillo for this purpose. It comes in three shades—flesh, white and brunette. If you want a complexion which will attract favorable comment everywhere, just give Derwillo a trial and you are sure to be delighted. Do not accept substitutes, then you will not be disappointed, as there is nothing "just as good," "better" or "just like it."

Viola Dana

NOTE—Here is a fair, honest proposition by the druggists and department stores of this city. Get a bottle of Derwillo from a toilet counter, give it a trial for a few days and if you don't like it take it back and get your money. Could anything be fairer? It is sold by up-to-date druggists.

A flexible shoe for your flexible foot

NATURE, in her wisdom, designed your foot arch to flex when you walk. Why restrain it in shoes that are rigid and without natural lines? "The foot is like a cantilever spring," wrote a noted doctor. "The Cantilever is the most comfortable shoe I have ever worn," said a trained nurse; and another woman said, "In Cantilever Shoes I feel as though I were flying."

It is because of the flexible shank and natural lines of the Cantilever Shoe that you will derive such comfort from it. And because of its graceful appearance and its harmony with this Spring's shoe styles you will see it worn wherever daytime costumes are worn. Fine workmanship, splendid materials and reasonable prices add to make the Cantilever desirable.

The graceful carriage and youthful walk of the Cantilever Woman are often admired. Her feet are free. She walks naturally, with a minimum of effort. Flexing with every step, Cantilever Shoes make her feel as though she wore the wings of Mercury.

Though you may not be conscious of it, there are few things that spoil a good disposition quicker than shoes that nag you. Nerve strain, leading to backache, headache and even to pains like those of rheumatism, may be caused by high heels and by shoes that bind and restrict the feet. Many writers on health and beauty subjects are now pointing out the importance of a woman's shoes in respect to her health, happiness and personal attractiveness.

You were given two marvelously constructed feet. At the nearest Cantilever Store, try on a pair of shoes suited to their needs. Keep your feet well and spare yourself the misery that has come to so many women. If wrongly designed shoes have already begun to injure your feet, a change to Cantilevers will help them. Weakened arches will be strengthened by proper exercise; your improved circulation will make you feel better and look better.

If none of the listed dealers is near you, write the manufacturers, Morse & Burt Co., 11 Carlton Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., for a nearby dealer's address and for the Cantilever Booklet which tells some things you will be glad to know about your feet.
